Oshima pongee is a textile* made in the Amami Islands. People started to make it about 1,300 years ago. It history and tradition*. It is beautiful in colors, and the kimono is light and comfortable to wear. In February 1975, it became one of the Traditional Japan Crafts*. But it is in danger*. This graph shows the number of people who worked for making Oshima pongee in 2016. There were 748 workers, and most of them were over 60 years old. There were no teenagers and less than 100 workers were under 60 years old. And the number is decreasing* year by year. In 1972, about 300,000 bolts of cloth* were made, but in 2021 the number decreased to only 3,290. However, some young people in Amami-Oshima Island have been trying to preserve* this tradition with the help of people around the world. I think it is important for everyone to help each other to keep the tradition.

We have learned a lot about SDGs* at school. Now, we know there are many problems around us and each of us must do something to make this world a better place to live in. Today, I would like to tell you about an interesting effort from a shochu company* which has been working on the energy problem.

Kagoshima and Miyazaki are famous for their sweet potatoes*. Do you know that many of them are used to make “imo-jyochu” ? However, when people are making it, many parts of the sweet potatoes become waste*.

A famous shochu company in Miyazaki thought that they should turn this waste into something valuable*. They tried hard to turn it into renewable* energy and they succeeded*. Now, they are making “imo-jyochu” and renewable energy at the same time. This example shows that waste is no more* waste if we can change our way of thinking.

The natural resources* of the earth are limited*. They will disappear soon if we use them too much. Let’s change our mind and change our world.

注 SDGs 持続可能な開発目標 company 会社 sweet potato サツマイモ waste 廃棄物 valuable 価値のある renewable 再生可能な succeed 成功する no more ~ もう～でない resource 資源 limited 限られた

Mr. Brown : What is the most important point you want to tell?

Rina : ()

Mr. Brown : I agree. I believe that’s the main point.

- ア We must not use renewable energy too much.
イ We should learn about SDGs to keep living on the earth.
ウ We should grow more sweet potatoes to make more renewable energy.
エ We can make something valuable when we change our mind.

次の英文を読み、1～6の問いに答えなさい。

Sam is a junior high school student. He has a grandfather named Bob. Bob is over 80 years old and he lives alone in the country*. Sam's parents were so busy with work that Sam stayed at his grandfather's house every year during his summer vacation. For the last two years, Sam could not visit him but he was able to see him online. Sam's mother often called Bob, her father, when she had time. She always said to him, "Dad, do you eat well? Don't forget to take medicine." He said, "You don't have to worry too much. I'm well." She was worried about him very much because three years ago, he got sick and stayed in hospital for about half a year. So, Sam's mother wanted him to live with her family in the city. Soon after he left the hospital, she said to him, "Let's live together in the city," but he just said no. He said, "I have the land to protect. I cannot leave my place."

This summer, Sam visited Bob and spent two months with him in the country during the summer vacation. The day before Sam left for the country, his mother said, "Sam, tell Grandpa to come here and live together with us, please. He's old and weak and it's becoming hard for him to live alone." Sam was the only grandchild* and Bob loved him so much. Bob always listened to him and he never said no to him. "Grandpa will listen to me when I ask him for something," Sam thought. He was looking forward to living with Bob in the city.

Bob got up very early in the morning and worked in the fields* before it got hot. During the day, he spent hours with Sam and taught him everything that Sam could not learn in the city. When Sam asked him something, Bob had an answer to any question. Sam respected him so much.

One night, Sam said to Bob, "Come to the city and live with me, Grandpa." Sam wanted to live with him and learn more from him. Bob always looked happy when he was with Sam. So, ① Sam was sure that Bob would say yes. But when Bob heard this, he looked sad and said, "I'm sorry, but I can't." Sam felt sad to hear that. Bob said "no" to him for the first time.

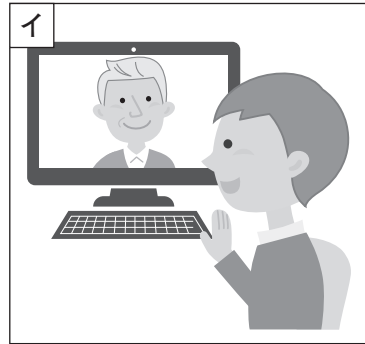

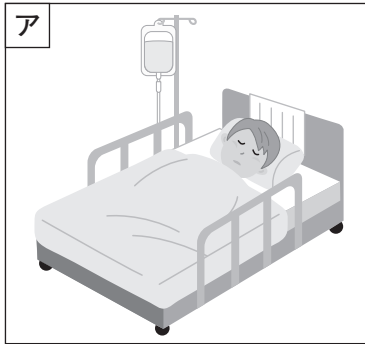

Bob said, "Sam, thank you for worrying about me. I've lived here for over 80 years. I love this place. Most of my friends here are gone and your grandmother is not here anymore* but I can feel everyone when I'm here. This place brings back a lot of good memories. This is my home. No other* place is better than home. You will understand it someday." When Sam heard this, ② he was sorry for Bob because he thought only of himself. Sam just said, "I'm sorry, Grandpa. I understand how you feel."

That night Sam called his mother. When she heard Sam's voice, she said, "You don't sound very good. What's up?" "Mom, Grandpa said no to me for the first time. I don't think living in the city can make him happy because this is his home. If you want him to live with us, we should move here. I love Grandpa and the life in the country, too," he said. After thinking for a while, she said, "Thank you very much for thinking of Grandpa. ③ I'll think about it."

Summer was over and Sam's city life was back. Early this fall, Sam's family made a big decision*. They will move to the country this winter. Sam wrote ④ a letter to Bob to tell him how he was feeling about it.
